Relying on God

(a short message by David Leeming)

I must begin my item for the newsletter to pay tribute to Keith Wills who was called home in late December. Brierfield Baptist and many of its members owe him a great gratitude. He was a friend of many and after going forward at a Billy Graham crusade Keith went to Bible college. He was always willing to come and preach; he took two away week ends and did very valuable work with our teenagers. Glenys, Kathryn and myself all remember him with real thanksgiving and pray that his wife and children will find comfort in the Lord at this sad time.

In September last year Glenys and I went on holiday. It turned out to be a mystery tour as we didn't know where we could dock next. Three ports were closed to us because of bad weather, but one substitute was to go to the Orkney island and visit Kirkwall.

By the time we got ashore daylight was beginning to fade so it was a quick visit before it went dark. St Magnus cathedral is called the light in the north and so it was that day. We have been in summer when it never goes dark but in winter there is often only three or four hours of daylight. This can be very depressing for the residents, and the suicide rate is extremely high. We are fortunate as the darkest time we meet is when the lights of Christmas are lit. These lights pierce the darkness and help us get through that time of year.

When we have corporate prayer at church just listen to the problems that are prayed for, they seem to get longer and more depressing. I must say that I consider the world in a very desperate state at present. Just look at the places where there is conflict, drought, flooding, famine and political unrest. But against all this is a promise that God will care for those who know him and put their trust in him.

Even though the list is long let's continue praying for the various needs and may we continue to keep His promises in our hearts. Remember Prom, prom, promises, God always keeps his promises.

David

Prayer Matters

Rededication

At the beginning of January we held a service of Rededication. Included in that service was the invitation to join together with the following prayer. Here is a reminder of our petition to renew our faithfulness to God our Father and the work within our church.

“Our Father, You have called us into Your service. Here we renew our promise to serve You in this place and we call upon Your help so that we can work and witness for You here in Brierfield and beyond.

Empower us by Your Spirit that we may live lives of service here so that it may be a shining light to those around us and a welcoming and loving fellowship. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen “

Our Prayer chain partners have also included prayers for quite a few members of our church who have lost friends and family over the past few months. Please pray for them and their families as they come to terms with their loss.

Kathryn

*If you have anything you would like to be added to the prayer chain,

CONCLUSION

A challenge to the UK government

The new UK FoRB strategy is a welcome commitment to placing freedom of religion or belief at the centre of UK human rights advocacy, at a time when this is more necessary than ever. Our recommendations in this report reinforce the five strands of the FoRB strategy.

- Extreme violence in sub-Saharan Africa crosses many national borders, and state capacity is proving insufficient to protect the rights of citizens. The UK must work through or with multilateral institutions, including the UN, the African Union and the Commonwealth, to ensure the causes of such violence are properly understood. It must also ensure an adequate response which, in the words of our Arise Africa campaign, stops the violence and starts the healing.
- We support the government's identification of ten priority countries in its FoRB strategy – eight of which rank high on the 2026 World Watch List. This list does not limit UK action but is a hopeful declaration of where the UK has the greatest degree of opportunity. We anticipate seeing how the UK can use its influence bilaterally with countries where there is a strong relationship – advocating for victims of violence in Nigeria and for recent converts in India.
- Open Doors is a member of international networks such as the Council of Experts for the Article 18 Alliance, as well as domestic civil society coalitions such as the APPG on FoRB, and the UK FoRB Forum. We encourage the FCDO to engage meaningfully with these groups, both within the UK and internationally. We also recommend that the FCDO commits to sharing how it stands up for FoRB in the context of its human rights work, for example by reporting on FoRB issues in future versions of the Human Rights and Democracy Report.
- In this seventh year since the UK Truro Review into Christian persecution, FoRB cannot be treated as an isolated concern but must be integrated throughout the FCDO's work and the UK's wider human rights advocacy. We look forward to hearing from the UK government on how this is going to be achieved, building on past achievements following the Truro Review.

- Open Doors has always strongly advocated working with wider civil society and religious groups, both drawing on their expertise in the UK and working with local faith actors and religious human rights defenders around the world.

We urge the UK government to act on the commitments it has made in the FoRB strategy, and we ask that MPs and peers hold the government accountable for the goals it has set.

FCDO FORB STRATEGY

In July 2025, FCDO minister Lord Collins of Highbury and UK Special Envoy for Freedom of Religion or Belief, David Smith MP, launched the FCDO FoRB strategy. The strategy has five core strands:

1. Engaging with multilateral institutions and forums to maintain collective support for FoRB around the world
2. Achieving better outcomes on FoRB through targeted bilateral relationships – in particular with ten priority countries
3. Strengthening international coalitions of collective action, such as the Article 18 Alliance
4. Weaving support for FORB throughout the government's human rights agenda, ensuring it is mainstreamed throughout the FCDO's work
5. Working towards stronger and wider engagement with human rights champions and civil society, including religious groups.

The ten priority countries are: Afghanistan, Algeria, China, India, Iraq, Nigeria, Pakistan, Syria, Ukraine and Vietnam.
